
Workshop Agenda:
Feminist and Intersectional Risk Assessments for Disaster Risk Reduction and Climate Change Adaptation

Jane Henrici, PhD

Session 1. Introduction to a Feminist and Intersectional Risk Assessment

- Why a risk assessment that is feminist and intersectional?
- Brief overview of workshop content and activities
- Introduction to key concepts and assessment steps

Session 2. Feminist and Intersectional Risk Assessment Preparations

- Step 1: Background and preliminary analysis
 - a. Gender and socioeconomic inclusion analysis
 - b. Hazards
 - c. Vulnerabilities
 - d. Policies, resources, biases, and practices

Session 3. Feminist and Intersectional Risk Assessment Development

- Step 2: Engagement
 - a. Interviews and observations
 - b. Local mapping, sampling, photographing, and other data collection
 - c. Community-based identifiers
 - d. Local feedback and commentary on background data and preliminary analysis

Session 4. Feminist and Intersectional Risk Assessment Completion

- Step 3: Assessment
 - a. Relative intersectional impacts and their relative likelihood
 - b. Victimization, deficit thinking, feminization, tunnel vision
 - c. The “tyranny of the urgent”, issues of expediency, ethnocentrism, biases, norms
 - d. Values, budgets, and protections